

CR&D

Creative Research and Development (CR&D) is a creative services agency based in London that has a long track record of providing branding, identity, print, digital, environmental and multimedia design solutions for a selection of Public and Private Sector clients.

We work as a tight knit team whose strengths stem from our holistic approach to projects. Our approach includes an emphasis on Strategy, Creativity, Technical Production, Design and Project Management.

Our core areas of expertise are Graphic Design, Visual Communication and Digital Development with a focus on; Branding and Logo Design, Illustration, Packaging Design, Digital Design (App and Website), Editorial Design, 3D Environment Design (Trade Shows, Exhibitions and Shop Branding) and Moving image (Motion Graphics Titles and Video Editing.)

David Cuesta, creative director of CR&D, has been practising graphic design professionally for over 20 years. Before helping to set up Creative Research and Development, he worked in many studios both in Canada and the UK. He began his career in Vancouver studying at Emily Carr Institute of Art and Design, before moving to England to study at Ravensbourne College of Design and Communication.

David and his teams have worked on campaigns for Diageo, Coca Cola, JCB World Brands, Sony Playstation, Hakkasan Group, BBC, Margaret Howell and John Lewis.
